New blog on Responsible Research and Innovation at University Education

- The HEIRRI project launches today its new blog (www.heirri.eu) to keep the public updated on the development of this Horizon2020 project which aims to integrate the concept of “Responsible Research and Innovation” (RRI) in the science and engineering degrees
- The blog features information about events and activities throughout HEIRRI, including news, press releases and relevant resources about Higher Education Institutions & Responsible Research and Innovation

The screenshot shows the HEIRRI website interface. At the top, there is a navigation menu with links for ABOUT, 1ST HEIRRI CONFERENCE, NEWS, RESOURCES, FORUM ONLINE, and CALENDAR. A search bar is located on the right. The main content area features a large article titled "16.02.2016 - HEIRRI at the Information Day 'H2020 with and for Society'" with a date of January 25, 2016. Below the article, there is a "NEWS" section with a featured article titled "What is RRI? What is HEI? What is HEIRRI?" dated January 19, 2016. To the right of the news section is a "STAY CONNECTED" sidebar showing social media statistics: 17 Facebook Fans, 237 Twitter Followers, 0 YouTube Subscribers, 24 LinkedIn Followers, and 1 WhatsApp Member. A "TWITTER FEED" section is also visible at the bottom of the sidebar.

HEIRRI project launches today its new blog (www.heirri.eu). It aims to be the project's main gateway to the outside world, providing information on HEIRRI objectives, partners, results and events related to RRI.

The new blog will also offer a general view of current activities and ongoing projects related to RRI besides a dynamic social media such as Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn and, soon, Researchgate.

What is HEIRRI?

HEIRRI (Higher Education Institutions & Responsible Research and Innovation) is a European project that aims to integrate the concept of “Responsible Research and Innovation”, or RRI, in the science and engineering degrees, mainly focusing on universities and other higher education institutions (HEIs). HEIRRI started on September 1st 2015, it will last three years and it has an approximate budget of one and a half million euros.

HEIRRI is led by Universitat Pompeu Fabra and the HEIRRI Consortium is composed by the Aarhus University (Denmark), the University of Bergen (Norway), the University of Split (Croatia), the Institute for Advanced Studies (Austria), “la Caixa” Foundation (Spain), the company Innovatec (Spain), the European network of science centres and museums Ecsite (with more than 400 institutions from 50 countries) and the Catalan Association of Public Universities (ACUP, which chairs GUNi, the Global University Network for Innovation, with 208 universities in 78 countries).
